CINEMA REPUBLIC

The H is the experience, not just a letter. The angular cut reads as a moment of motion frozen mid-frame the same jolt the seats give riders. It's not decoration bolted onto the name; it's the name doing double duty as a piece of the product. The orange burst is the "naked-eye 9D" sensation made visible the shock of light and speed hitting you the second the film starts, placed exactly where the eye lands first.

The restrained white-on-navy palette says premium attraction, not cheap arcade it's built to hold up on dark venue signage and night-time mall frontage, where this thing will actually be seen most.

"Cinema Republic" sits quietly underneath, like a stamp or seal it's the world you're chartering people into, not a second brand competing for the same headline.
